

Many Tribes and Tongues in Celebration

Here is a list of BGU students graduating in the June 6, 2026 ceremony in Dallas and the title of their projects with advisor comments and summaries.

“I didn’t think reading a list of dissertation titles would be this interesting.”

Executive Master of Business Administration EMBA	Dissertation Title	Advisor Comments
 Frederick P. Billings, III USA Entrepreneur and President, GardenforLIFE	Original Design: Family Enterprise	Fred’s EMBA project involved a significant real estate development venture, a landscaping company, and empowering tribal communities in Montana to venture into organic gardening businesses all while filming and making available online his gardening and leadership courses. Fred’s dissertation shows how all of this can be done in ways that involve multiple generations providing financial family financial, social and spiritual legacy to children, grandchildren and beyond. Brad Smith Fred’s research on Family Enterprise provides groundbreaking perspectives for the majority of businesses on the planet which are family businesses. His impact extends beyond businesses to all aspects of family life, and generational impact. His project establishes the foundation for a book that he will release after he graduates from BGU. Excellent, groundbreaking research! Bryan McCabe
 Marc Eddy Momplaisir Haiti District Officer, The Salvation Army	Leadership Development Toolkits for The Salvation Army Belize	Marc Eddy’s capstone has addressed inconsistent leadership development by creating and piloting an innovative and contextual Leadership Development Toolkit that has been extremely transformational. Martine Audéoud
 Ivan Sia Malaysia Facilitating Chair for C12 in Kuala Lumpur	Enhancing Human Capital Flourishing in C12: The Bridge Model	Ivan Sia’s capstone project introduces the Bridge Model, an innovative leadership framework connecting personal leadership formation with organizational flourishing. Drawing on his experience coaching CEOs in Malaysia, Sia argues that sustainable performance and innovation emerge through cultures shaped by purpose, trust, empowerment, and collaboration, rather than relying primarily on traditional financial or operational metrics. Master of Arts in Transformational Leadership MATL	Dissertation Title	Advisor Comments
 Comfort Akorfa Adjahoe-Jennings Ghana Founder &amp; CEO Ele Agbe Company Ltd.	Discovering My Calling to Community Entrepreneurship	Comfort's work reflects on God's calling in her life as a community entrepreneur, emphasizing relational flourishing over material wealth. This concept involves mutual respect and collaboration for God's glory. Her upbringing, and personal and professional development was guided by principled parents and supportive mentors, which instilled in her a sense of contentment and the value of giving back. Their influence is also reflected in her leadership philosophy of relational development. The African concept of Ubuntu underscores her belief that community building is a shared responsibility, with God guiding the business efforts of His followers.
 Sheniah Armstrong-Jones Guyana/British Virgin Islands Deputy Secretary, Ministry of Health and Social Development, BVI	Called to Heal, Lead, and Restore: A Theological and Philosophical Reflection on Transformational Leadership and Calling	Sheniah's work explores the intersection of theological and philosophical perspectives on transformational leadership, examining how these insights have shaped her understanding of leadership and personal calling. Theological principles such as servant leadership, agape love, and stewardship provide a moral and spiritual foundation for leadership as a vocation of service. Philosophically, concepts such as authenticity, virtue, ethics, and justice challenge leaders to embrace ethical responsibility and personal growth. Together, these perspectives have informed her approach to leadership, emphasizing relationality, ethical accountability, and a commitment to fostering transformation in individuals and communities. The paper also outlines practical strategies for applying these perspectives in future community projects, emphasizing empowerment, systemic change, and inclusive decision-making.
 Mark Benn Guyana Sr. Pastor and Superintendent, Full Gospel Fellowship	Masters Final Project	A personal philosophy of ministry to reflect upon God's work in Mark's life, the people God has used to shape him, and clarity on how he will move forward with a more focused approach to his ministry. Through this Mark's intention is to avoid being a plateaued leader and to finish well as a good steward of the church where he is called to pastor and the other pastors he is called to equip.

 Regina Gayle Glass USA Ex Dir. Hope Ministries of NE TX	Becoming: A Reflective Leadership Journey	Regina leads a ministry whose mission is to provide a hands up transformation opportunity for single mothers with children in a multigenerational community approach that releases destinies and permanently alleviates poverty for all generations. This is a unique and powerful community model where single mothers, children and seniors live together and help each other. The community experiences the values of love, honor, hard work, inclusion, respect for all people and a firm identity in Christ. A safe stable living environment, education, bible study, financial planning along with credit clean up and trauma healing are key elements of Hope. This is an amazing model of transformation. Brad Smith
 Cheryl Ruth Johnson Canada Lead Pastor, Westview Bible Church	Cultivating Leadership Health that Empowers Others	This excellent communicator brings us on her journey of pursuing wholeness in her own leadership rather than hiding or performing. She has a vision for networks of mutual care, encouragement, and spiritual formation for healthy leaders and churches. Reading her insightful and authentic account of the turn toward more healthy, humble and hope-filled leadership is a healing and transformative experience in itself. Page Mallett
 Mi Soon Kim South Korea Head of Nutrition Management, Yonseisoo Hospital	A Reflection on Faith and Ministry Formed through Life's Journey	This dissertation testifies how a person's life can be transformed through meeting God in the midst of suffering. I believe this writing will bring great comfort and hope to many people who read it, especially those who are currently going through difficult times. Daniel Lim This study aims to theologially analyze a philosophy of ministry formed through an individual's journey of faith and life experiences, and to examine it integratively from the perspectives of the theology of work, the third space, and spiritual transformational leadership.
 Mefiboset López González Guatemala Pastor, Chaplain, Centro de Refuerzo Escolar Florecer	Faith and justice: The Relationship between Christian Mission and Community Development in the community "La Florida"	Mefi's thesis critically examines the role of evangelical churches in Colonia La Florida, Guatemala City, where severe challenges such as violence, poverty, and social exclusion persist despite the presence of more than 100 congregations. The study investigates how missional actions influence community development and social justice, proposing a contextualized model of integral mission that combines discipleship and social action. A mixed-methods approach was employed, including surveys and semi-structured interviews, revealing spiritual transformation potential but limited community articulation and interchurch collaboration. The thesis concludes that implementing an integral mission model can strengthen the church's social impact and contribute to building more just and sustainable communities.

 Brandon Stanley Molina Peñate El Salvador National Dir of the Christian University Movement	Changing the World from the University: Analysis of the Promotion of Holistic Education in Universities Based on Christian Principles in El Salvador	This thesis examines how Christian-based universities in El Salvador promote holistic formation, justice, solidarity, and social action. Using a mixed-methods approach, it identifies key strengths and gaps, offering recommendations to enhance educational practices that shape ethically committed leaders capable of contributing to meaningful social transformation.
 Germán Ricca Argentina Assoc Pastor, Harvest Church	Philosophy of Ministry	The final product is a personal yet transferable statement of a Christ-centered ministry philosophy that emphasizes being close to God, helping others, and making a commitment to do so. This paper is more than just a look back at my ministry; it is also a tool to be used for what is coming. It is based on prayer, taking charge, and always working to become a better transformational leader.
 Debora Röhl Germany Social Work Adviser to Immigrants	Between Faith and Justice: A holistic Approach for a Dialogue between Theology and Gender Justice in Latin America	This thesis examines the influence of the New Calvinist movement on Latin American Christian women and its implications for gender justice. It is concluded that New Calvinism reinforces patriarchal structures and limits female participation in ecclesial and social life, although it also generates tensions that can open spaces for criticism. The research proposes integral mission and contextual hermeneutics as liberating frameworks that reconcile faith and gender justice.
 Mónica Treviño Rodríguez Mexico Women's Prog Coordinator, Fdn for Family Dvlp	Symbolic Violence: Psychosocial Impace in Cerro de la Campana	Mónica's work focuses on The Cerro de La Campana community located in the southern area of the city of Monterrey, Nuevo León, Mexico. She demonstrates that it is urgent to rethink strategies that promote the transformation of communities affected by systematized violence, recognizing mental health as a fundamental axis of community well-being. Mónica also demonstrates through the window of integral mission how intervention must also include collaboration with the inhabitants of the community to provide sustainable economic, spiritual and social solutions.

 Jonathan Sims USA Missions Minister, North Boulevard Church of Christ	Reflections on Transformational Leadership	"One piece of this identity that became clear in this project is that I have been called and equipped to be a 'Kingdom entrepreneur.' This is not something I would have recognized at the start of this program, but now it is something that I cannot deny." A journey worth reading. Yvonne McKenzie
 Jai Sung Yuh South Korea CEO, HANA Commercial CO., Ltd.	Implementing the Missional Church Starting from the Workplace	As a Korean experienced leader, Br. Jai Sung Yuh has started to develop a missional church from his workplace. He went against the habitual missional perspectives and reaped a lot of wisdom in building up his church with a missional perspective. Martine Audéoud This project provides a practical theological foundation for the church to equip its members to be faithful disciples in their workplaces, transforming the secular sphere from a place of mere economic activity into a vital arena for Christian worship and witness. This project also analyzes how individuals integrate their faith with their daily work. The findings demonstrate that those who view their work as a divine calling report a deeper sense of purpose by focusing on biblical and missiological perspectives.
Doctor of Ministry DMIN
 L. Paulette Jordan USA Assoc Minister, Ebenezer Bapt Church; BGU DTL Director	An Analysis of the Church's Responsibility for the Spiritual and Social Development of Adults with Special Needs	An amazing plea for churches to own their responsibility to cater for the spiritual and social development of adults with special needs. Very heartfelt research that needs to go to every church. Martine Audéoud This study explores the Church's responsibility for the spiritual and social development of adults with special needs. Although the Church was assigned this responsibility from the beginning (Numbers 3:11; Proverbs 4:1; and Luke 14:12-24), they have consistently failed to address the responsibility, dismissing it instead as a responsibility for the state and federal government, social agencies and nonprofits.
 Wailes Rangsa	Local Church Transformational Impact in Greater Communities in the Bangladesh Context	Great practical analysis of the impact of a Christian church in Bangladesh. Even in the hardest contexts, churches can be extremely powerful witnesses for Christ. Martine Audéoud This study is based on the premise that the local churches must awaken to their calling and prioritize equipping and empowering every believer to live as a

  Elijah Kofi Agyemang Ghana Kanda Tech Inst, President Guidance and Counseling Assoc	A Case Study of the Life Challenges Experienced Among Female Adolescents Attending the Kanda Technical Institute of Accra, Ghana	A highly transformational experience in one technical institute in Accra, Ghana, that has the potential to become a model for many other institutions that cater to female adolescents. Martine Audéoud
  Minho An South Korea Sr. Pastor, Sungsan Church	A Study on Transformational Urban Church Planting Leadership of Missional Churches: Focusing on the Cases of JESUS CHURCH &amp; JESUS COFFEE	An excellent case-study on how a church can develop evangelistic outreaches through coffee-houses. Martine Audéoud JESUS CHURCH has developed a relational and small-group discipleship model that facilitates gospel flow into the daily lives of urban dwellers. JESUS COFFEE, on the other hand, leverages the cultural familiarity of coffee spaces and liminal environments to create natural intersections between believers and non-believers. Together, these platforms embody a functional ecosystem of the gospel, transforming the church from an institution into a dynamic structure through which the gospel flows.
  Winston Oswald Assanah Guyana Sr. Asst Pastor, First Assembly of God; Natl Youth Dir, Genl Sec of the Guyana Police Fallen Heroes Fdn	To Alleviate the Plight of At-Risk Boys and Young Men as a Result of Absentee Fathers	Winston has accounted for the wonderful outreach he has developed for at-risk male adolescents in Guyana. He has been highly recognized in the country for his work. Martine Audéoud An inspiring and informed research study that will help leaders who are working with at-risk youth. Transformation of many lives will be the final result for a population that may be forgotten in some areas. Well worth your read. L. Paulette Jordan

 Safuratu Bola Bello Nigeria Immigration Attaché, Nigeria Embassy, Vienna	Enhancing Community Engagement in Oasis of Hope Church, Ikotun, Lagos, through a Context-Specific Mentoring Program	Bola's study will add substance to any community development project focused on mentoring. She has dedicated herself to provide a thoroughly-researched and practically-proven mentoring process that will transform lives. Even after pausing for a season to deliver a baby boy, Bola persevered and crossed the final line. This study is filled with examples and trends that will help mentors to be more effective in Nigeria and beyond. An incredible piece of research! L. Paulette Jordan
 Youngsoo Choi South Korea Professor, Shimonoseki City University	A Study on the Mission Model and Influence of Korea-Japan Koinonia as a Mission Community: Case of Korea- Japan Koinonia at Tsuchi Ura Megumi Church in Japan	A very powerful analysis of the missional impact of Korean-Japanese church outreach in Japan. Martine Audéoud Focusing on the theological concept of koinonia and the practical application of transformational leadership, this study investigates how historical conflicts between Korea and Japan were transformed into reconciliation and cooperation. By doing so, it aims to present a model for mission that can be realized in multicultural environments within the modern church. This has paved the way for new missionary models through the inclusion of Korean pastors in Japanese churches, the dispatch of missionaries, and the participation of new churches in the shared mission
 Melvin C. Cross, Jr. USA Sr. Pastor, Glory House Intl	Rebuilding Transformative Communities Initiated by the Black Church: An Alternative to Gentrification	You must see the video documentary that Melvin produced with his study! It takes you on a journey through his neighborhood and city and explores that revolution in Black churches there. A third-generation pastor himself, his study documents alternative solutions to gentrification. A must read for anyone looking to transform their communities through the power of the Black church! L. Paulette Jordan Gentrification poses a significant threat to historically Black urban communities, leading to displacement, cultural erasure, and institutional decline. Among the institutions affected, the Black Church has long served as a cornerstone of spiritual, social, and political empowerment for African Americans. However, as rising property values and demographic shifts alter neighborhood landscapes, Black Churches face membership decline, financial strain, and identity crises. This dissertation examines how Black Churches can leverage transformational leadership to address the challenges of gentrification and promote equitable community development.

 Kelly Henderson USA Truancy Mgr, Memphis-Shelby Co Schools; Education consultant	An Investigation of the Impact of Transformational Servant Leadership in Urban Turnaround Schools	Kelly's study reflects the educational environment and learning experiences for the many turnaround schools where he served on staff and gained firsthand knowledge about the students and how they learn and thrive. Focused on servant leadership, Kelly's study provides concrete approaches for urban leaders in turnaround schools, especially the one that I attended and Kelly served as Assistant Principal in Memphis, Tennessee. Destined for closure for consecutively failing statewide standards, Kelly's strategies turned that school around and it stands today. With this study, other educators can do and do likewise! L. Paulette Jordan
 Marcia Alexis Hodge-Walker Guyana/USA Assoc Pastor &amp; Women's Ministry Dir, Calvary Christian Fellowship AG.	Empowering Churches in Columbus, Ohio, to Facilitate Women's Access to Mental Health Support and Holistic Well-Being	Marcia's work shows the need for the church to step up and be that supporting environment for those of us who struggle with mental health. Her research produced surprising results which are significant.
 Deborah Hutson Guyana Education Officer, Ministry of Education	Leveraging Inter-Denominational Dance to Transform and Empower the East Ruimveldt Community of Georgetown, Guyana	Dr. Hutson's dissertation journey was birthed in an impassioned love for the East Ruimveldt community of Georgetown, Guyana. As a gifted redemptive dance artist, she has personally witnessed the life changing capabilities of dance in ministry outreach. As a result, Dr. Hutson developed an outreach program incorporating the joy, freedom, healing and bridge building/unifying aspects of dance specifically designed for the East Ruimveldt community. Her work is both visionary and ground breaking. Maria Pompea
 Yongsang Lee South Korea Professor, Shimonoseki City University	A Study on the Transformational Leadership of Norimatsu, the First Japanese Missionary, and Its Progressive Legacy	A historical study of the impact of the leadership of the first Korean missionary in Japan. Very insightful. Martine Audéoud

 Samweli Maduma Tanzania Pastor Anglican Church; Principal, Morogoro Bible College	Assessing Tanzanian Church Leaders’ Understanding of Theology of Work Principles in Relation to the Secular-Sacred Divide	A long-awaited study of Samweli’s life-long quest to reduce the secular-sacred divide in his country and beyond. Martine Audéoud
 Keturah Miller-Hardy USA NYC Dept of Education Lead Educator; Dir of D28Q MBK &amp; MSK	A Phenomenologic al Study of Leadership Efficacy and the Enactment of Culturally Responsive Pedagogy in My Brother’s Keeper (MBK) and My Sister’s Keeper (MSK)	Keturah’s study was practical, realistic, applicable and timely. As a New York public school teacher and leader, Keturah captured that experience from herself and others to enhance learning opportunities for black and brown students in the New York public school system. The study’s results can help any educator in the U.S. who is teaching black and brown students today. It touches the heart of an educator and motivates them to do more. L. Paulette Jordan It is my privilege as dissertation advisor to celebrate Dr. Keturah Miller-Hardy and her outstanding dissertation. This research explores the lived experiences of educational leaders and their efforts to implement culturally responsive practices that support and empower students in urban school settings. The significance of this work lies in its examination of how leadership efficacy influences the successful enactment of culturally responsive pedagogy. By focusing on MBK and MSK programs, Dr. Keturah provides valuable insights into leadership approaches that promote equity, belonging, and academic success for students who have historically faced educational barriers. Antoine Hawkins
 Troy A. Murphy USA Lead Pastor, Green Bay Community Church	Blended Ideologies: The Impact of Capitalism on Christian Theology of Work for Christians in the Workplace	This research investigates the complex intersection of American capitalism and biblical theology of work among Christians in the marketplace, revealing a troubling merger of capitalist values with limited understanding of God’s vision for work. This often creates believers who exhibit personal kindness while unknowingly participate in systems that perpetuate inequality because their faith has been reframed to support rather than prophetically challenge these structures. The study concludes by proposing strategies to teach Christians in the marketplace a biblical theology of work that can flourish within the American capitalist context while maintaining authentic biblical values.

 Robinetta Murray USA School Sec Dept of Education; CEO and Founder, Mercy Inst Career Dvlp for Women	An Analysis of the Effectiveness of Entrepreneur Coaching and its Impact on Building Capacity in Nonprofit Organizations	Robinetta's study reflects her daily work and commitment to women entrepreneurs. Through her research, she developed sound, logical, and practical strategies to help women take their ideas from inception to full implementation utilizing entrepreneur coaching to build a sustainable nonprofit. Her efforts have transformed the lives of these women entrepreneurs forever and has the potential to transform the lives of future entrepreneurs as well. L. Paulette Jordan
 Samuel M. Mwangi Kenya/USA CEO, Partnership for Indigenous Peoples Intl	Enhancing the Role of ICT and Related Innovation in Alleviating Youth Unemployment in Kiambu County, Kenya.	Samuel Mwangi's doctoral dissertation demonstrates that ICT-enabled employment systems, when embedded in local assets, mentorship, and market linkages, function as local peace infrastructure by reducing youth exclusion, restoring dignity, and strengthening social and institutional stability. The dissertation is therefore a strong empirical support for the position that youth employment systems are critical to societal peace and political stability (Olagunju, 2026). Mwangi thus offers a message applicable across the African continent and indeed the global south. Olajide Olagunju
 Simon Mwendha Uganda Principle AA, Central Bank of Uganda	Assessing Organizational Culture Change Readiness: Factors and Frameworks Influencing Successful and Sustainable Transformation (A Case Study of the Central Bank of Uganda)	Dr. Mwendha conducted a very powerful analysis of the strategies that led to successful transformation of the working climate of the Bank of Uganda. An excellent model for top-level bankers! Martine Audéoud

 Lesado Elias Nathan Ireland/Nigeria Sr. Pastor RCCG Joseph' Palace	Contextualising the Gospel to Reach the Youth in the Redeemed Christian Church of God in Ireland	With unrelenting passion and persistent dedication, Lesado persevered through many years of study to complete this vital project. His heart for the youth in his church is reflected on every page. He developed a model to help pastors to contextualize the Gospel to make it more effective and acceptable to youth. While his study focused on his church in Ireland, its recommendations apply to any church seeking to keep and grow the number of youth members. A truly inspirational study that addresses a problem that the Church is experiencing especially after COVID. Review Leasdo's model and apply it in your church, and you will see growth among the youth! L. Paulette Jordan
 James Samuel India Leadership Movement Facilitator CRU	Equipping Local Churches in South India for Transformational Mission: Overcoming Contemporary Challenges and Revitalizing Evangelism Among Believers	James' study is transformational for educational leaders in India, but also around the world. The strategies and steps developed in this study that schools can take right now will change the learning experiences and outcomes for their students. If you are interested in global education trends that are backed by empirical research, you'll want to read this one. It is transformative! L. Paulette Jordan
 Felicia Sargent-Walker USA Contract Specialist Dept of Veteran Affairs	An Analysis of the Citywide Collaboration of Services for Homeless Female Veterans in the City of Milwaukee, Wisconsin	The model that Felicia developed from her study brings together eight sectors in Milwaukee in support of homeless female veterans. Her focus on this population is unique. A 26-year Air Force veteran herself, and one who worked in the Veterans Health Administration in Milwaukee, Felicia saw firsthand how homeless female veterans were not made aware of the services that they were entitled to. Her study produced a model that would bring all of the servicing agencies together to eliminate duplication, improve efficiency, and stretch the limited dollars for these organizations. Read this one if you have any interest in serving a vulnerable population in your city! L. Paulette Jordan
 Richard Skyers Jamaica Bishop &amp; Distr Overseer, Flagstaff District, New Testament Church of God	An Investigation on the Impact of Absentee Fathers on their Son's Behavior in Western Jamaica	In a context where approximately half of Jamaican children reportedly grow up without the physical presence of their biological fathers, concerns persist regarding delinquency, truancy, academic underachievement, and social maladjustment. The primary research question examined how acceptable school behaviour could be enhanced despite father-absence. The recommendation of this research is for the Ministry of Education partnering with churches in Jamaica to develop a structured male mentorship program to support boys from father-absent households across the country.

 Kendall Augustine Tanner-Ihm USA Sr. Minister, Wesley Methodist Church; BBC Presenter	To What Extent Does the Neglect of Psychological Safety Exist in the Church of England	Recent scandals within the Church of England have suggested that serious failings in safeguarding have led to abuse, especially of the more vulnerable or relatively powerless, among both its clergy and laity. Augustine's research demonstrates that this problem is endemic and results from a failure to apply the teachings of the Christian Gospel. Specifically, it demonstrates a failure to understand the necessity of ensuring psychological safety, especially with those called to lead in a hierarchical structure and among a socially privileged leadership. His analysis and proposals for transformational leadership are especially applicable to the British scene, but they are more widely applicable – power, as Augustine shows, is almost invariably self-interested and self-protective rather than devoted to sacrificial service! Stephen Dray. A unique and creative study that was skillfully executed. You've got to read it! L. Paulette Jordan
 Cameka Taylor Jamaica Authorpreneur &amp; CEO of BambuSparks Publishing	Exploring Authorpreneurship as a Viable Model for Sustainable Income through Microfinancing: A Case Study	This research presents a practical framework for churches, nonprofits, microfinance institutions, and mission organizations to empower emerging authors and creatives as income-generating leaders, beginning in Jamaica, yet relevant worldwide. It opens a new pathway for mission support by equipping individuals to fund their ministries, strengthen families, and contribute to national development through their God-given gifts. By redefining author success beyond book sales, the study shows how creative entrepreneurship and microfinancing can generate jobs, build stability, and advance the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals. Ultimately, it stands as a blueprint for creative economic transformation, unlocking sustainable income, personal empowerment, and community flourishing wherever creativity meets opportunity. This is impact through creativity.

 Joshua Gbenga Ajayi Nigeria	Using the Holy Eucharist Principles to Maximize Church Leadership: Case of the Anglican Diocese of Lagos	A unique analysis on how understanding of the holy eucharist can significantly impact church leaders' understanding and practice of a Christ-like leadership. Every church leader should read it! Martine Audéoud

Rector, All Saints' Anglican Church; Canon for Global Mission	West, Nigeria
 Daniel J.T. Armstrong USA Men's Group Leader	An Analysis of the H.O.P.E. Advantage Rating Scale on the Sustainability of Social Purpose Organizations	Daniel developed a very insightful model to maximize the implementation and impact of the vision of social purpose organizations with a high potential of applicability around the globe. Martine Audéoud The unique employment of statistics in this study is both insightful and creative. Daniel supported a rating scale that he developed from ground zero to full integration. His quantitative methodology yielded quantifiable results that support the rating scale and its implementation in social purpose organizations. This is another one that you must read; you will not regret it. L. Paulette Jordan
 Kathleen Pierburg USA Director of Certificates Program, BGU	The Leadership Experiences of Women Leaders in Grassroots Economic Empowerment Programs: A Study of Global Cases	A unique global analysis of empowerment of global women leaders in low-income countries. The sharing of these experiences has a great potential for the encouragement of other isolated women leaders. Martine Audéoud
 Dzuthorso Tunyi Canada-India Lead Pastor, Dir for Advancement at Institute for Marketplace Transformation	Case Studies on Holistic Discipleship: Whole-Life Integration Approach to Equipping Disciples	In an era where discipleship is much discussed, Tunyi proposes a discipleship training model that caters to Christians at all levels. Very unique application of the holistic integration of theology of work. Martine Audéoud
